It inspires me to see that every child has the right to be able to read and write. If children are struggling, I am the person to help them and tutor them.

I can't wait for my sessions – to see the eagerness on each child's face when I fetch them for Ready Steady sessions.

Each child progresses in a different way. I interact with each child in a way that makes them feel that they are special. I have learnt to be calmer with my own kids at home too, although I do still scold them now and then...
