

Goldilocks and the three bears

Adapted from an English fairy tale
Illustrator: Helga Hoveka

The porridge was too hot.

So the three bears went for a walk.

Goldilocks saw the bears'
house.
She went inside.

Goldilocks tasted all the porridge.

“I like this porridge. It is just right,” she said.

Goldilocks sat on all the chairs.
“I like this chair. It is just right,”
she said.
Oh no, the chair broke!

Goldilocks lay on all the beds.
“I like this bed. It is just right,”
she said.
Goldilocks fell asleep.

The three bears came home.

“Who ate my porridge?” said Mother Bear.

“Who broke my chair?” said Baby Bear.

The three bears went into the bedroom.

“Who are you?” said Father Bear.

Goldilocks saw the bears and she got a big fright!
She ran and ran and ran, all the way home.
