

Barati Mokgwadi

Education Coach

Barati fell in love with the foundation phase while she was at varsity. She realized how important the foundation is to children's development.

The statement that "reading starts in the mother's womb" caught her attention. However, her passion for kids was what inspired her to continue her education in BED Foundation Phase. She attended North-West University (Potchefstroom) to further her studies. She has worked for the Department of Education for four years as a Grade R teacher.

She hopes that she has begun a successful journey in the NGO sector.
